QUEZON City Mayor Joy Belmonte has announced that the local government would open its doors to thousands of employment opportunities through its annual job fair set for Thursday, May 1 or Labor Day.

The event would run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the M.I.C.E. Center inside the city hall complex, where over 11,000 jobs would be up for grabs, the mayor said.

The city government said that 100 private companies and government agencies, spanning various industries and sectors, were expected to participate to offer jobs, especially for "QCitizens."

Belmonte has encouraged all jobseekers, especially the city residents, to take part in this opportunity to jumpstart or advance their careers.

"Through this job fair, we are delivering on our commitment to create a city where every resident has access to decent, meaningful work," she said.

"In Quezon City, we believe that employment is not just a livelihood — it is empowerment, dignity and a pathway to a better future," she said.

At the job fair venue, the local government will also set up a one-stop shop for government offices that will provide services to applicants in completing their pre-employment requirements.

Onsite services will include membership registration and identification card D issuance for Social Security System, PhilHealth, PagIBIG, and Philippine Statistics Authority for the national ID.
