"I dream of a capital city that, politically shall be the seat of the national government; aesthetically the showplace of the nation -- a place that thousands of people will come and visit as the epitome of culture and spirit of the country; socially, a signified concentration of human life, aspirations and endeavors and achievements and economically as a productive, self contained community."

CULTURAL AND TOURISM AFFAIRS OFFICE
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR QUEZON CITY

INTRODUCTION

Planners, students managers, and administrators keep complaining that there are not enough data and statistics available in the country and even in the urban centers, upon which to base the programs and projects. The Cultural and Tourism Affairs Office (CTAO) has long felt the need for data and statistics upon which tourism projects and activities may be soundly based. The CTAO had attempted to come out with brochures, pamphlets, leaflets, etc. outlining major historical, cultural, and physical landmarks which define the tourism potentials of the city.

This is the first time that the CTAO has dared to compile historical, educational, cultural, economic, business, organization, communications, and peace and order data and statistics in an effort to provide the much needed information, data and statistics needed in policy-making, program planning, and project implementation for over-all development of the city.

This effort was under the supervision of Mr. Rufino Co of the CTAO, with able assistance of Prof, E.D. Viray and Messrs. Gil G. Castro and Ricardo S. Ortiz.

The CTAO has ventured into this undertaking with the hope that this handbook would be useful for planning, serious study, and administration and management. For one thing, the possible identification of at least two triangles with a myriad of business, recreational, and service establishments which could serve as the bases for the development of tourist belts in the city presents itself. What may be considered as necessary increments to the existing undertakings would be hotels, native crafts stores, curio shops, and other enterprises attractive to tourists, whether local or foreign. At the same time, perhaps it is opportune that peace and order, utilities, and the existing historical landmarks be developed with a tourism orientation.

For instance, Filipino children go through school without the opportunity to appreciate historical antecedents which would make them very proud that they are Filipinos. Very few young students of history comprehend the significance of a young worker from Tondo, Manila, leading a group of Katipuneros in Pugad Lawin, Quezon City, tearing their cedula, symbolic of Spanish colonialism, and crying, "Mabuhay ang Republika ng Pilipinas!"

marking the start of the national revolution for independence which culminated with the proclamation of the Republic of the Philippines on June 12, 1898, in Kawit, Cavite.

Or very few young students of history would consider that the Pact of Biak-na-Bato arranged by an illustrado from Quiapo, Manila, by the name of Pedro Paterno purporting to end hostilities between the Filipino katipuneros and the Spanish colonial military forces, was made in the street with the same name by the side of the Sto. Domingo Church along Quezon Ave.

I hope this handbook could contribute a toward a change in attitude for the sake of tourism and cultural heritage.

PHYSIOGRAPHY

Quezon City is the biggest of the four cities included in the Metro Manila area, lying immediately northeast of Manila and straddling the northern extension of the Guadalupe plateau. This strategic location provides stable ground foundation, adequate surface drainage, deep water table, and ample ground water supply. It is an area of moderate slopes and the most common soil type is the hard loam, more popularly known as the adobe which was heavily used in construction in the past.

The boundaries / location of the city are:

North ------ Caloocan City and San Jose del Monte (Bulacan)
East -------- San Mateo (Rizal) and Marikina (Metro Manila)
West ------- San Juan and Manila (both in Metro Manila)
South ------ Pasig (Rizal) and Mandaluyong (Metro Manila).

In terms of land area, Quezon is the second biggest in the country, being next in size to Davao City. Land use is as follows:

Classification	Area (ha.)	Percentage (%)
Residential	8,502.82	56.29
Commercial	255.87	1.70
Industrial	870.80	5.76
Institutional	725.58	4.80
Military Camps	226.50	1.50
Parks/Recreational Sites	161.05	1.07
Open Lands, (idle lands, crop lands, grass lands, low lying areas along the valley fault line and Marikina River)	1,759.88	11.65
Water Surface (creeks and rivers)	138.00	0.91
Watershed (Novaliches Reservoir)	2,465.50	16.32

SOURCE: CPDO

Weather condition is generally fair, with the highest amount of rainfall occuring during the months of May to November of every year.

Quezon City is divided into four congressional districts, 140 barangays, and 24 clusters of barangays now known as the Councilor's Area of Responsibility (CAR) used extensively in the tabulations in this handbook. The number of barangays per district is: District I, 37; District II, 28; District III, 37; and District IV, 38.

Although District II has the least number of barangays, it is the biggest in land area, including the Novaliches Reservoir. Primarily, however, Quezon City is a residential city with little commercial and industrial activities. Next to the residential area, the biggest area is composed of open lands.

LANDMARKS

AMORANTO STADIUM The stadium, inaugurated in 1966 and named after Mayor Amoranto consists of a grandstand, an eight-lane track and field oval, bleachers, and a gymnasium constructed on 5.8 ha. of land along Roces Ave. The complex was built at a cost of P2 million and has been used for national and local athletic events.

ARANETA COLISEUM Recognized as the world's biggest domed coliseum with a seating capacity of 36,000, it has withnessed renowned international events like the Ali-Frazier title fight in October 1975, the Holiday on Ice and Miss Asia Quest.

LUNG CENTER OF THE PHILIPPINES Located along Quezon Ave., it was inaugurated on January 23, 1982. The hospital provides special care for lung disease.

NATIONAL KIDNEY INSTITUTE (Formerly National Kidney Foundation of the Philippines) Inaugurated on January 16, 1981, it became the National Kidney Institute in November 1986. The hospital houses modern equipment and facilities for kidney and pancreas transplants. it is also located along East Ave. near the Lung Center of the Philippines.

NINOY AQUINO PARK Formerly Parks and Wildlife, the park was constructed on July 5, 1954 in an 80-hectare woodland best for family gatherings complete with a children's playground and man-made lagoon for boating. The park boasts of its various specimen of the country's fauna and flora with its famous monkey-eating eagle. On March 1986, the government named the park after the late Senator Benigno S. Aquino.

SAN PEDRO BAUTISTA CHURCH The second oldest church in the country, this was built in 1699 and had undergone renovation in 1932. It is located in San Francisco Del Monte. The church was named after Father Pedro Bautista who was canonized and buried inside the church. Parts of the old altar still exists.

ATOMIC REACTOR This was built on July 16, 1958 along Commonwealth Ave. With an egg-shape structure, it is the only kind in the country which signifies Philippine involvement in the atomic age.

BATASANG PAMBANSA Now the seat of government, the building, which was completely finished in March 1978, stands on Constitution Hills with its breathtaking backdrop of mountains and valleys.

CENTRAL BANK OF THE PHILIPPINES The complex, composed of five inter-connected buildings, has an approximate floor area of 62,210 sq. m. built along East Ave. with a total land area of 57,300 sq. m. The Security Plant Complex consists of the Security Printing Plant, Mint and Gold Refinery, and office of the General Services. It was inaugurated on September 7, 1978.

CLOVERLEAF MARKET Located in Balintawak, the gateway to Metro Manila from the north, the cloverleaf or the Balintawak Transmission Complex was believed to be the site of the "First Cry of Balintawak." The celebrated Bonifacio Monument temporarily stood at the UP Campus until returned to Pugad Lawin upon completion of the construction of the north diversion road.

FARMER'S MARKET One of the biggest markets in the city found within the vicinity of Araneta Center, the plaza was razed by fire in 1986 and was later recontructed and is currently in operation.

OUR LADY OF EDSA SHRINE Built by a grateful Filipino people in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary for her protection and guidance during the people power EDSA revolution which led to the toppling of the Marcos dictatorship and to the return to democracy.

CAMP AGUINALDO-CAMP CRAME Actual site of the people power EDSA revolution. The two camps face each other with EDSA as the middle road. The people massed in EDSA fronting both camps to protect the soldiers holding in the camps against Marcos.

GENERAL LAWTON MONUMENT The actual spot in Bagong Silangan where the American general was killed by Katipuneros during the Philippine-American War.

BERNARDO PARK Named after the mayor of the city, who was killed in an ambush together with Mrs. Aurora Quezon, one daughter, and one son-in-law.

BALARA PARK-FILTER PLANT The Balara complex is a combination of offices, employees' housing, park with swimming pools, and filter plant for the water supply of the Metro Manila area.

INC CENTRAL The main headquarters of the Iglesia ni Cristo, the biggest non-Catholic religious group in the country. The sect holds its rites in the national language and promotes membership assistance to one another.

BONIFACIO MONUMENT The Bonifacio Monument stands just a stone's throw away from the cloverleaf bridge in Balintawak. It was in this spot where the Great Plebian launched the Philippine Revolution against the Spaniards in 1896.

SOCIAL SECURITY SYSTEM The Social Security System is to private employee what the Government Service Insurance System is to government personnel. Its building in East Ave., Quezon City is visited by thousands everyday following up claims for benefits offered by the System.

BARRIO BANLAT The birthplace of Tandang Sora (Melchora Aquino) on January 6, 1812, mother of the Katipunan and official heroine of Quezon City. This Barrio Banlat was located at the second district of Quezon City.

HIMLAYANG PILIPINO The place where bones of Tandang Sora were transferred and buried as a tribute to the heroine of Quezon City.

MENTAL HEALTH CENTER The Philippine Mental Health Association Building is located along East Ave., Quezon City. The PMHA pioneered the nation-wide movement in fostering and promoting mental health activities. The association has pursued this activity relentlessly since 1950. It instituted the first Community Mental Health Clinic in the country which offered free services to the general public. It also pioneered in the rehabilitation of the mentally ill.

NEPA-Q-MART The Nepa-Q-Mart is located along EDSA, near the Bernardo Park, has become a landmark in Quezon City.

LA LOMA COCKPIT The La loma Cockpit is one of the biggest and possibly one of the oldest in the country. Founded in 1903 by Don Tomas Guison, the establishment is being supervised up to the present by the Guison heirs. It has been the site of cockfighting every Sunday and holiday . Tourists and foreign visitors complete the sojourn in the Philippine when they are able to witness one of the typical native sports, locally known as sabong (cockfighting).

PANGKAT KAWAYAN Since its organization in September 1966, the Pangkat Kawayan (a bamboo orchestra composed of 44 school children whose ages range from 8 to 16 years old) has made repeated performances in various places in Metro Manila and had been travelling all over the world. It has visited all the key cities of the United States, Europe and Australia. Tourists and foreign dignitaries for whom the Pangkat Kawayan has played have invariably commented that there is nothing like it anywhere else in the world. All the musical scores are arranged by Victor "Chino" Toledo, who trains and conducts the orchestra. This musical troupe is under the direction of Miss Laura R. Gorospe and under the management of Miss Elena C. Carlos, both these ladies are top officials of the Department of Education Culture and Sports.

On the whole, the Pangkat Kawayan has already claimed national and international prestige and had become a tourist attraction which will invariably add to the cultural heritage of the country and people.

This unique band was born in Aurora A. Quezon Elementary School, Quezon City on September 6, 1966 through the initiative of Miss Laura R. Gorospe, then incumbent principal of the school, with four-folk objective of reviving and vitalizing an almost dying musical institution the Musikong Bumbong , of arousing in our people, love for music which truly ours, of developing and utilizing the musical talents of the young and of encouraging the worthy use of leisure hour.

KRUS NA LIGAS CHAPEL Krus ng Ligas is situated on the southwestern skirt of the University of the Philippines. Its most important landmark and chief point of local interest is the bisita or small chapel located at the plaza which is the center of the (barrio) barangay.

The bisita of the barangay is a 200 year old chapel build of limestone, hard wood and galvanized iron. Old residents of the place claim that the barrio people themselves took turn is building it. The exact spot on which the bisita is now found is supposed to be the place where a big tree called ligas grew and its branches formed the shape of a cross. Hence, the barrio became known as Krus na Ligas.

QUIRINO MONUMENT Located at Anonas Street infront of Quirino Elementary School, the Father of the Low Housing Project for government low-salaried employees in 1950 - Project 2, 3 and 4 in this district of Quezon City.

POLITICAL PROFILE

Except for Mayor Amoranto, the master politician, who stayed longest at the helm of Quezon City, the leadership of the city has been a model for dynamism. With a very high literacy rate, it is only to be expected that the voting population is independently intelligent.

The voters know whom to elect, they comprehend who has the best program of government, they are aware of track record, they understand the difference between performance and promise, they fully appreciate the value of the exercise of suffrage.

The incumbent City Mayor, Hon. Ismael A. Mathay, Jr. for instance, is a veteran politician abundantly qualified to administer the affairs of the city. At his side is an able Vice-Mayor Charito L. Planas, known for her integrity, competence, and concern for the urban poor. Together, they have put in place a group of heads of departments, offices, and task forces that reads like a "who's who" in the academe, in business, in management, and in non-governmental organization leadership.

On the highest ladder of leadership in the grassroots level are, of course, the barangay captains who are mostly in their second or third term of office, lending support to the thrusts and directions of the Mathay administration. Beside these barangay captains are the kagawads, most of whom are also qualified to be leaders of their barangay. Included finally in the list of elected officials are the Sangguniang Kabataan chairmen.

Not to be forgotten in the political profile of Quezon City is the electorate which had put in office a team that could best serve the interests of the people residing in the city. The political maturity of an area should logically start from the voting population and move upwards to the highest administrator who will provide the inspiration, vision, and guidance to the integrated efforts toward development of the city and of the people.

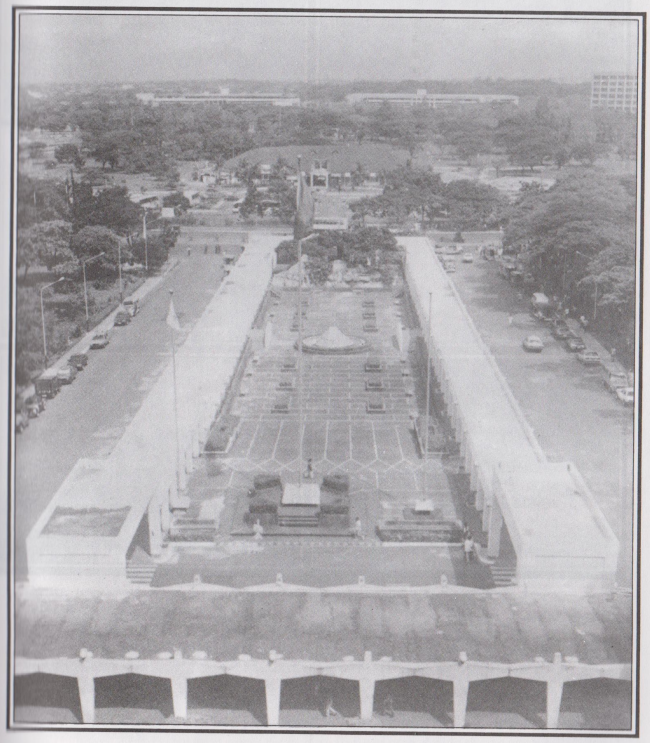
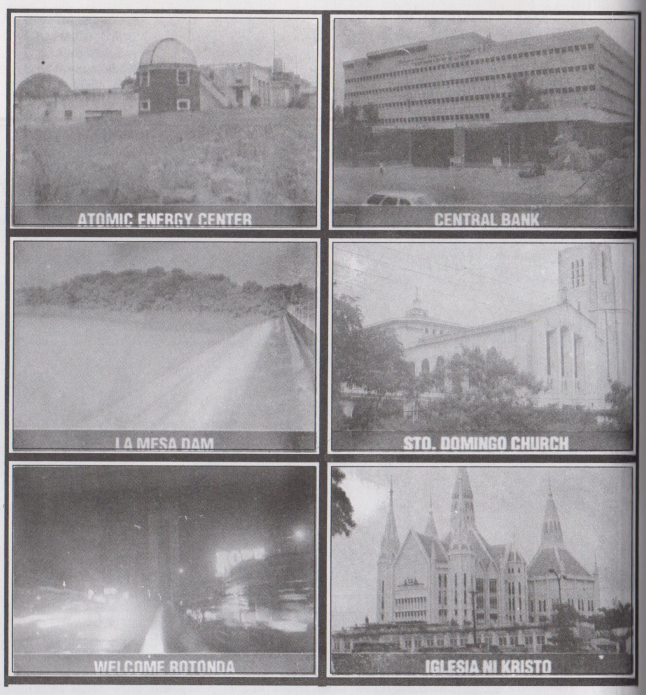
Editorial Note: Mayor Brigido R. Simon Jr. was first appointed by President Aquino as Office-in-Charge of the Office of the City Mayor in February, 1986, following the EDSA people power revolution and the toppling of the Marcos dictatorship. The first regular elections were held in 1988 where Mayor Simon was duly elected together with the first batch of City Councilors. From September 1972 to 1986, there was no City Council as a result of the proclamation of martial law by Pres. Marcos.

There is likewise a gap in the list of city officials from 1942 to 1947, which comprised the years of the Japanese occupation of the Philippines during World War II. Although the U.S. liberation forces arrived in the Philippines in 1944 and Manila was freed of the Japanese military administration in 1945, it took some time before the Philippine government structure was formally back in place.)



NEW ENTRANCE TO CITY HALL



HISTORICO-CULTURAL INSIGHTS

There are always significant events in the birth, growth, and continuing development of a metropolis. In the case of Quezon City, these strides are closely identified with the vision of President Quezon for a national capital and the seat of the national government.

Now, after about 60 years after its birth Quezon City stands as the national capital and as the seat of many of the offices in the national government. It is a vibrant metropolis, throbbing with the many-faceted life of a dynamic metropolis. It is emerging as the residential center, a commercial center, as the seat of the national government, and as a growing financial center.

There are many historical landmarks in Quezon City, among which may be counted the San Pedro Bautista church in San Francisco del Monte, the second oldest church in the country; the site of the unang sigaw (first cry) in the Balintawak area to mark the start of the Philippine revolution against Spain; the monument to Gen. Lawton, the spot where the U.S. general was killed by Katipuneros in battle after the Pact of Biak-na-Bato failed in its objective to stop the hostilities in the Philippine war of independence against Spain. The hostilities even continued after the Treaty of Paris which ended the Spanish-American war and wherein the Philippines was ceded by Spain to the United States and so the Philippine revolutionary forces continued the war of independence against America.

1. A chronology of significant events in the birth, growth, and development of Quezon City:

August 23, 1986. Andres Bonifacio and his Katipuneros tore their cedula in Pugad Lawin and cried, "Mabuhay ang Republika ng Pilipinas," to mark the start of the national revolution against the Spanish colonial administration of 400 years. There have been many local revolts against the oppressive Spanish rule, but this was the first that was national in character. Jose Rizal, the national hero, now in exile in Dapitan, in Mindanao, chose not to join the revolution, which was later to be split into the Magdiwang (Bonifacio) and the Magdalo (Aguinaldo) factions. In the subsequent convention to proclaim the Republic of the Philippines, the first in Asia, Emilio Aguinaldo was elected president over Bonifacio who walked out of the convention in protest and was never to be seen alive again. As a result of the Philippine revolution, the republic was proclaimed on June 12, 1898.

December 14, 1887. Brokered by Pedro Paterno, the Pacts of Biak-na-Bato were to be signed today and the following day to temporarily end hostilities between the Philippine revolutionary army led by the Katipunan and the Spanish military authorities. The hostilities were ended later with the Treaty of Peace signed in Paris between Spain and the United States terminating the Spanish-American war and starting the Philippine-American war, paving the way for the prominence of Antonio Luna, an Ilocano mestizo who refused to have his any part in the revolt against Spain but now actively joined the war of independence against the United States. Like Bonifacio, Luna was killed with his assistant, Francisco Roman, under mysterious circumstances in Nueva Ecija. The Philippine revolution was, therefore, not without its leaders who, "like Saturn, devoured, his own children," in the words of that great French historian Mirabeau.

October 10, 1938. The Board of Directors of the People's Homesite corp. (Alejandro Roces Sr., chairman; and Ambrosio Magsaysay, Vicente Fragante, Jose Paez, and Eugenio Hernando, members) approved a resolution to purchase "a tract of land consisting of 15,723,191 sq. m. (about 1,600 ha. of rolling hills) in the Diliman Estate from the Tuazon family at P0.05 per sq. m.

October 11, 1938. The Board of Directors of National Development Co. set aside P2,000,000 "to finance the improvement of the site for the proposed model city in Diliman Estate, Rizal, near the site where the University of the Philippines will be located..." At about the same time, the Philippine Government acquired 50 ha. of land in New Manila Heights for the General Service Troops of the Philippine Constabulary, cleared with the use of about 5,000 Bilibid prisoners and 800 Constabulary soldiers to become Camp Crame, Camp Murphy, and Zablan Field.

July 26, 1939. President Quezon, strolling in the Diliman area with Eulogio Rodriguez Sr., Alejandro Roces Sr., Jose Paez, and Antonio Sison, stood on a grassy promontory not far from where Sampaloc Ave. is now, surveyed the northeastern sweep of Kamuning, the present Constitution Hills south of the Novaliches watershed and exclaimed, "This is where I would like to build a real Filipino metropolis."

September 27, 1939. President Quezon with Jose Yulo and some cabinet members and assemblymen visited Diliman and while having breakfast in the unfinished administration building of the state university stressed the "necessity of early approval of the charter of the proposed city in the Diliman site." Thereupon, Assemblyman Ramon Mitra (Mountain Province) field a bill creating the new city to be named Balintawak City. Assemblymen Narciso Ramos and Eugenio Perez (both of Pangasinan) filed an amendment changing the name of the proposed city from Balintawak City to Quezon City. Quezon's comment at the amendment: "Why can't you wait until I'm dead before you name anything after me?"

October 12, 1939. The Philippines Herald headlined: "Quezon is mayor of city named after him." Other appointments: Vicente Fragante, vice-mayor and city engineer; Eusebio Aguilar, city councilor and health officer; Jose Paez, city councilor; Alejandro Roces Sr., city councilor; Tomas Morato, chief of police; Pio Pedrosa, city treasurer; Emilio Abello, city attorney; Jacob Resenthal, city councilor and city assessor; Perfecto Palacio, municipal judge; Amado Amador, judge of the Court of the First Instance; Damian Jimenez, secretary of the council; Sabino de Leon, assistant chief of police. Earlier when Quezon asked MacArthur about the plans for the new city, the latter suggested that a mayor and a chief of police be named immediately. When Quezon asked MacArthur his recommendation for chief of police, he picked his senior assistant: Dwight Eisenhower. Unfortunately Eisenhower was due to go home to America in December, 1939, having finished his tour of duty, and he had to decline the appointment.

Quezon authorized a P200,000 loan to the new city council so it could function immediately. He also assigned the vice-mayor and the councilors their specific ditricts, as:

Alejandro Roces Sr.	Diliman and Quezon Institute Site with Miguel Canizares as barrio lieutenant
Eusebio Aguilar	U.P. site and Payatas Estate with Juan Malixi as barrio lieutenant
Vicente Fragante	Camp Murphy, Manila Heights, Mandaluyong, Wack-Wack with Mateo Capinpin and Conrado Benitez as barrio lieutenants

October 18, 1939. President Quezon conferred wih Assemblyman Valentin Afable (Zambales), owner of the Manila Heights Hosp. at the corner of what is now Aurora Blvd. and EDSA. After the meeting, it was announced that the government had acquired the hospital site for the city hall of the newly-created city.

October 26, 1939. The names of the following officials of Quezon City were sent to the Commission on Appointments for confirmation: Tomas Morato, chief of police but who on Oct. 23, 1939, assumed the position of city mayor; Manuel Diaz, city engineer; Perfecto Palacio, justice of the peace; Jacob Rosenthal, city assessor; Alejandro Roces Sr., city councilor; Jose Paez, city councilor; Eusebio Aguilar, city councilor; A.D. Williams, city secretary; Emilio Abello, city attorney; P.C. Icasiano, city health officer; Pio Pedrosa, city treasurer. Earlier, Manuel Argorya of the Manila Police was appointed assistant chief of police, although the actual police work was performed by a detachment of the Philippine Constabulary headed by Alfonso Turillo.

October 28, 1939. Commonwealth Act. No. 502 creating Quezon City specified its boundaries included in its 7,355 ha. covering the barrios of Galas, La Loma, Sta. Mesa Heights, San Jose Balintawak, and Kaingin taken from Caloocan; barrios of New Manila, Cubao, San Francisco del Monte, Kamuning, and Roxas Dist. taken from San Juan del Monte; barrios of Jesus de la Peña, Lower Barranca, U. P. Site, Krus na Ligas, Balara, Varsity Hills taken from Marikina; barrios of Ugong Norte and Santolan Libis taken from Pasig; and the Wack-Wack area taken from Mandaluyong. Big estates acquired in the forming of the new city: Diliman Estate (155,732,189 sq. m.), Sta. Mesa Estate (8,617,883 sq. m.), Mandaluyong Estate (7,813,602 sq. m.), Magdalena Estate (7,644,803 sq. m.), Piedad Estate (7,438,369 sq. m.), Maysilo Estate (2,667,269 sq. m.), and San Francisco del Monte Estate (2,575,388 sq. m.). The new law also specified the salary of the city mayor at P7,200 p.a.; that of the city secretary at P3,200 p.a.; and that of the vice-mayor and city councilors at P20 for each day of attendance at the session of the city council. The salary of the other officials was to be determined by an ordinance approved by the Secretary of the Interior.

September 20, 1939. William Parsons, an American architect commissioned to make studies on the new U.P. in Diliman left Manila for America after submitting his comprehensive report to Quezon, which included the construction of the government center in Quezon City. Regarding these plans, the Philippine Herald editorialized: "Planned according to modern requirements, Quezon City will, in time, draw population and business from Manila. To begin with, it is already drawing the educational activities of the city. So inevitable is this that it may well be the Capital of the Philippines..."

October 19, 1939. Bienvenido Gonzales was installed as the sixth president of the U.P. with instructions from Quezon to move the state university to Diliman as soon as posible. Early the following year, the population of Quezon City had gone up to 39,013, with these foreigners: Americans, 272; Chinese, 473; Germans, 63; Spaniards, 43; English, 33; Dutch, 12; and French, 7.

January 27, 1940. To date, there were 33 building permits issued by Quezon City, with the construction boom costing P85,812, and the most important of the buildings was the P12,500 2-storey Home for Refugees in Cubao, for which the inter-governmental committee on refugees in Washington, D.C. reported that the Philippines had offered one of the best facilities for the oppressed population in Europe, attracting world attention and putting Quezon City, despite its short existence, in the international scene.

June 30, 1940. To date, the city council had appropriated an additional P50,000 for garbage collection, increasing the P100,000 fund appropriated for the same purpose earlier.

March 11, 1940. Assemblyman Guillermo Villanueva (Negros Oriental) introduced a bill making Quezon City the national capital and the seat of government of the country. The bill, however, did not prosper.

May 5, 1940. Judge Perfecto Palacios complained that the tiny city force of 48 policemen, increasing the police complement of 26 appointed in January, 1940, and proportionately there was one policeman to cover 154 ha., service 196 homes, and attend to the needs of 100 residents.

May 9, 1940. During the national conference of provincial governors in Manila, one of the activities was a visit to the "model city to see the principal sites (then) under construction." The model city was, of course, Quezon City.

June 30, 1940. Mayor Morato ordered all cabarets closed immediately. The two big ones were located in La Loma and in Galas. Likewise, the mayor ordered that the business permits of the cockpits in La Lma, San Francisco del Monte, Galas, and San Juan would not be renewed when they expired, forcing them to close down.

August 19, 1940. City Engineer Florencio Moreno reported to President Quezon that Quezon City had 540 km. of first class roads, of which 29.21 km. were taken from Rizal; 97.5 km. of second class roads, of which 7.48 km. were taken from Rizal. Moreno also reported that 2,400 ha. of land for the city had been surveyed and that 1,800 ha. more were planned for survey. There were 349 street lamps and public markets were being planned for construction in Cubao, Diliman, and La Loma, aside from the slaughterhouse in Bago-Bantay and the city pound in Diliman.

November 15, 1940. President Quezon celebrated the fifth anniversary of the Philippine Commonwealth with laying of the cornerstone of the National Capital building in what is now the Quezon Memorial Circle.

May 4, 1942. Quezon City was fragmented into Balintawak (San Francisco del Monte, Galas, La Loma) and Diliman (Diliman proper, Cubao, U.P. site) under a Japanese military ordinance creating districts under the Greater Manila.

July 19, 1942. Mayor Morato was arrested by the Japanese military administration on charges of being part of the resistance movement, taken to Fort Santiago, released on Dec. 24, 1942, and went into hiding in Baguio City all throughout the Japanese occupation of the country.

July 7, 1942. Florencio Cruz, former city health officer, was appointed district chief of Greater Manila for Quezon City.

February 8, 1945. Quezon City was placed under the U.S. military control. This arrangement was to last until April 5, 1945.

April 5, 1945. Oscar Castelo was disgnated acting assistant mayor of Quezon City which was then part of Greater Manila and technically supervised by the mayor of Manila. Castelo held office at the Quezon residence in Gilmore Ave. and sent notice to all pre-war employees to report for work. Among the first to respond to Castelo's call were Paterno Fortuna, Dominador Salvador, Hernando Castelo, and Jose Aragon.

December 17, 1945. President Osmeña issued Proclamation No. 32 providing for a nation-wide campaign to raise funds to buid a national monument to honor Quezon.

December 31, 1945. To date, from July 1, 1945, the total income of Quezon City amounted to P171,392.41, and the deficit for the same period totalled P10,337.49, despite the subsidy of P30,014.58 from the national government.

January 1, 1946. President Osmeña appointed Ponciano Bernardo as city mayor in simple ceremonies held at Malacañang Palace.

July 4, 1946. During his inaugural address, President Roxas announced his intention to restore Quezon City, causing a howl of protests since the city was financially bankrupt. Manila health authorities feared that the city's "unsanitary condition might affect Manila." The Manila Chronicle reported that "an independent Quezon City may confront the government with a grave police problem." The Manila Times editorialized that the Quezon City of "pre-war grandeur" was "now a favorite haunt of rats and crooks."

July 25, 1946. President Roxas created a committee headed by Sen. Melecio Arranz to select "the most suitable site on which to build the capital city of the Philippines and the capitol building or buildings." After so much study, investigation, and deliberation, the committee concluded that "the area covered by Quezon City extending northward along Marikina River to the upper limits of the Novaliches watershed, thence west to the boundary line again of Quezon City , comprising an approximate total area of 16,200 ha., more or less, one-fourth of which is owned by the government, is the best under the circumstances to be made as the capital city of the republic."

October 11, 1946. Sabino de Leon, former police chief, was designated as assistant mayor of Greater Manila for Quezon City. He moved the city offices to Kamuning. On the same day, President Roxas signed the bill authored by Rep. Ignacio Santos Diaz freeing Quezon City from Manila.

October 27, 1946. Despite the recommendation of the Arranz committee, a news item defamatory to the city appeared declaring that "if you have been robbed or help up in any area within Quezon City, in which case you have to go to the police precinct, then don't look for it in a building (since) an arrow will point to you that it is sheltered under a guava tree." Even so, the National Housing Commission had started clearing the ground and grading the streets in the homesite area in the Diliman Estate along Quezon Blvd. Ext. in anticipation of the construction of a model community of 80 houses to accommodate the 120 members of the War Damage Commission due to arrive.

December 30, 1946. The Manila Daily Bulletin reported that President Roxas had approved the choice of Quezon City as the natioanal capital city and that all government offices would be transferred to it, including the presidential palace. Malacañan Palace would be converted into a museum.

January 2, 1947. Press Secretary Juan Orendain formally denied the selection of Quezon City as the site of the natioanl capital, stating that "there has not been any report pertaining to the choice of a capital site." Mayor Bernardo, however, went about training 40 men to form the nucleus of the police force and on Jan. 9, 1947, appointed Atty. Crisanto Alba as police chief. Bernardo also announced the construction of a high school in Kamuning and additional public markets even as he urged residents to pay their taxes in the city.

January 17, 1947. The city council passed a resolution for the immediate organization of district councils proposed by Mayor Bernardo for the 24 ditricts of the city, composed of the barrio lieutenant as chairman and five district councilors to be elected by the people, primarily for the maintenance of peace and order.

January 29, 1947. The city council passed a resolution, sponsored by Gregorio Roxas, requesting a sunsidy of P200,000 from the national government to be used for the construction of roads, bridges, and other public works projects, including the building of a city hall at a cost of P80,000 at the market site in Cubao.

January 1, 1948. Councilor Gregorio Roxas became vice-mayor, succeeding Matias Defensor, while Ramon Vicencio of Galas took Roxas' place in the city council. The city population had now grown to P150,000.

February 28, 1947. President K. H. Hernady of Magdalena Estate ordered squatters in the real estate company's land evicted so that he could start a major housing development in the area. Mayor Bernardo, however, championed the cause of squatters and Magdalena Estate's plans would not be carried out.

June 23, 1948. President Quirino called for a caucus in Malacañan Palace to decide once and for all the site of the capital city.

July 3, 1948. Angel Quiambao of the Evening News reported that Mayor Bernardo's problem was "how to attract Filipinos, Americans, and other businessmen to invest capital in Quezon City, where the response of capital has not been as expected." Meanwhile, as squatters began occupying the open spaces of the city, Quiambao continued in his report that "these homeless war victims, obviously unheadful of existing ordinances prohibiting house construction without permit from the city engineer's office just go out building the makeshift habitations on any available lot they fancy..."

July 17, 1948. Congress passed Republic Act. No. 333, amending Commonwealth Act. No. 502, known as the charter of Quezon City, declaring it as the "capital of the Philippines and permanent seat of the national government."

April 23, 1949. The cabinet approved the flotation of P3-million in bonds as part of the proposed P20-million fund for the development of the new capital city in accordance with plans submitted by the Capital City Planning Commission headed by Juan Arellano and with Mayor Bernardo, Jose Paez, Manuel Mañosa, Salvador Araneta, and Ernesto Rufino as members. Cesar Concio was executive secretary. President Quirino approved the master plan for development on April 8, 1949.

April 28, 1949. Mayor Bernardo died in an ambush on the way to Baler (Quezon) together with Mrs. Aurora Quezon, Baby Quezon, Philip Buencamino III, husband of Nini Quezon, just after Bongabon (Nueva Ecija). Bernardo was barely 45 years old.

May 4, 1949. Assistant Executive Secretary Nicanor Roxas was sworn to office as acting city mayor by Speaker Eugenio Perez. Mayor Roxas vowed to implement President Quirino's plans for Quezon City.

September 9, 1949. President Quirino appointed Councilor Francisco Batacan as vice-mayor while Luis Sianghio took Batacan's place in the city council. Teodoro Gener, Tagalog poet and novelist, was appointed secretary of the city council.

October 22, 1949. Quezon City was inaugurated as the national capital with the ground-breaking of the capitol building at Constitution Hills, the new site of the national government, and with the inaugural of the welcome arch at the boundary of Manila and the city. As President Quirino laid the cornerstone of the capitol building, he said, "The construction of the projected capitol will perpetuate the memory of our great leader and will also serve as a monument to Filipino genius which has been seeking expression."

January 23, 1950. The city hall annex was completed at a cost of P175,087.88 in a lot donated for the purpose by the People's Homesite and Housing Corp., now known as Bernardo Park. The annex became more popularly known as the social hall and later as the Doña Aurora hall. At the inauguration of the building, the Philippines Herald reported that it was "the biggest social event in Quezon City in recent years."

January 4, 1950. President Quirino appointed Ignacio Santos Diaz, former congressman from the first district of Rizal, as city mayor.

March 16, 1950. City Health Officer Petronio Monsod reported that with a budget of only P194,740, the city maintained 12 health centers in the districts of Kamuning, Cubao, Murphy, Sociego, Galas, Santol, General Roxas, San Francisco del Monte, La Loma, Novaliches, and Malamig.

June 16, 1950. President Quirino signed into law Republic Act. No. 537 extending the boundaries of the city, increasing its area tenfold, from 1,527 ha. in 1939 to 15,359 ha., of which 62 per cent would be for residential and commercial purposes, 14 per cent for throughfares and public utility terminals, 7 per cent for public parks and playgrounds, and 3 per cent for agriculture. The salary of the city mayor was likewise increased to P9,000 p.a.

July 4, 1951. During the July 4th celebrations, the city placed third in the national contest on health conditions.

November 20, 1951. President Quirino called a meeting of the Council of State to hasten the construction of buildings in the capitol site. Quirino reminded every one during the meeting, "It is time that the administration should speed up the transfer of the seat of government to Quezon City." Realtor Antonio Varias expressed an opinion which nobody thought important. He decried the huge expenditure for an empty capital site and batted instead for a bigger and healthier Manila.

July 25, 1950. President Quirino appointed Pablo Reyes as the first city superintendent of schools. The city then had one high school with 404 students and 17 teachers and eight elementary schools with 20,053 pupils and 466 teachers.

Quezon City was the site of the EDSA people power revolution that caused the toppling of the Marcos dictatorship and the swearing into office of Corazon Aquino as president of the country. In an earlier national election where anomalies were allegedly rampant, Marcos allegedly rigged the results to assure his victory.

February 2, 1988. Brigido Simon Jr. and Vicente Sotto III were sworn to office as duly elected city mayor and vice-mayor, together with the duly elected councilors. Simon had earlier been appointed as officer-in-charge of Quezon City by President Aquino.

October 12, 1989. The Golden Jubille of Quezon City was celebrated.

June 30, 1992. Mayor Ismael Mathay Jr. and Vice-Mayor Charito Planas were sworn to office as the duly elected executives of Quezon City, together with the duly elected councilors. There were three candidates for mayor during the elections, including former Mayor Simon, former City Prosecutor Jose Erestain and former Councilor Andres V. Genito, jr.

2. Quezon City has sister-city relationships with the following American and Asian capitals as well as other cities and municipalities in the country. These sister-cities include:

From the United States
Salt Lake City (Utah)
Maui Country (Hawaii)
Fort Walton Beach (Florida)

From Japan
Chiba City

From Taiwan (Formosa)
Taipei City

From the People's Republic of China
Shenyang City
In the Philippines
Cotabato City (Mindanao)
Pura (Tarlac)
Wau (Surigao del Norte)

DEMOGRAPHY

While even the Mid-Term Philippine Development Plan (1993-98) looks at the increase in population over the last years as the primary reason why economic strides over the same period are not felt at the moment, the Quezon City leadership view population as a resource rather than a problem in development. The thrusts of the city government include the preservation of industrial peace as a means of assistance to business and investments, skills training and development as a means of making the labor force component of the population employable, productive, and useful, and the maintenance of health care and social sevices, infra-structures, and peace and order as sine qua non to development. As such, there are plans to broaden and expand the functions of the Industrial Relations Office, particularly its Manpower Placement Unit,and increase the capabilities of the Q.C. Skills Training Center in Bgy. San Bartolome and the Roces Vocational High School so that they could contribute more directly to the development efforts of the city administration under Mayor Mathay.

The Quezon City population is young, with 25 as the average age, and its idealistic tendencies can be directed toward the useful pursuit of skills development, employment fulfillment, and molding a future where they can be counted upon as contributors to the development of the city even while they also develop their own selves. After all, the first and the last considerations for development are the people who are the reason, the participants, and the beneficiaries of development. Development would be meaningless if it is not people-directed.

What is really needed in the population is the opportunity to be trained, to be gainfully employed, to be able to develop the figures as individuals, and to be able to exhaust all potentials to be useful participants in the big task of development and nation-building.

GOVERNMENT INCOME AND EXPENSE

Local governance is determined by the income of the local government unit (LGU) and the expenditure that the LGU has alloted for its service programs, projects, and other pertinent activities for the people the LGU is sworn to serve. The basic difference between public administration and business administration is while the latter is profit-oriented, the former is purely service in orientation.

With the enactment of the 1993 Q.C. Revenue Code, revenue collection is expected to double; therefore, the allocation for the expenditure for basic services can likewise double, causing enormous increment in the extent of services for delivery to the people.

The power and capacity of an LGU to fix its own revenue measures so that it can exercise more significantly and more substantially the local autonomy envisioned in the 1991 Local Government Code is the basis for the LGUs to define their own tax codes. Truly, no LGU can enjoy real autonomy if it can not stand on its own two feet for its logistics requirements, if it has to depend so much on the national government for funding for its programs and projects.

Consequently, one of the important aspects of public administration has emerged on the local goverment level, i.e., the balancing of income from revenue collections against expenditure for programs, projects, and other relevant activities. The subject of budgeting has arisen as the most practical test for an effective public administrator or local government executive. For after all, the good public administrator should be as frugal with the funds of the LGU as the head of a family with those of the family. The management of public funds determines for the public who will eventually decide with the vote whether the local leadership should stay long in office or not. The sound management of public funds could very well be the essence of public trust.

BUSINESS AND ECONOMIC ACTIVITIES

The expanse of business and economic activities denote the over-all affluence of the community. Although insofar as land use is concerned, Quezon City stands out as a residential area, the commerial and industrial land use index indicates great potentials for business and economic activities. For one thing, there is still a lot of open spaces which may easily be transformed into shopping malls, industrial or housing-cum-industrial estate complexes. At the same time, part of these open areas may be converted into skillss training and manpower development centers in order to ensure skills availability for an emerging commercial-industrial metropolis.

The great majority of business enterprises in Quezon City are small, marginal, mostly family-owned undertakings which find it difficult to meet the business permit, real estate tax, and business tax requirements, even prior to the enactment of the 1993 Q.C. Revenue Code. It is, therefore, imparative that the city government be able to evolve business assistance schemes primarily aimed at these small enterprises, particularly in the areas of easy credit, quality control, and improved production processes.

There must be a sustained partnership between the local government and the business sector in order to ensure that the economic climate is conducive to business and investments initiation, development, and expansion.

The total number of establishments issued with permits by the Business Permits and License Office (BPLO) in 1992 registrered at 54,710 (New - 14,504, Renewals - 40,206). There was a gradual increase in the number of business permits issued by the city from the period 1987-1992.

NO. OF BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENTS ISSUED WITH PERMITS (NEW & RENEWAL: 1986-1992)

Two Business Centers

Majority of the establishements are small scale in nature (57 per cent of total business tax collections were derived from top 1,000 business taxpayers).

About 10 per cent or 107 firms of the top 1,000 corporations in the country are Quezon City based, indicating potential of the city to attract investments.

Concentration of business establishments:
- Evident in the southern portion particularly Cubao area;
- Various satellite business areas developing along busy roads and major thoroughfares; and
- Industrial establishments mostly operating at the northwest portion particularly at the Balintawak district.

QUEZON MEMORIAL CIRCLE

TOURISM, SPORTS, AND RECREATION

There are at least two triangles, one along West Ave. and EDSA; and the other along Timog Ave., Quezon Ave., and EDSA, which can qualify as tourists belts, specially if more hotels, handicraft stores, and souvenir shops, are encouraged in either of these two triangles.

The weakness in the present, if any, development of Quezon City is the absence of a conscious effort to localize certain specialized business in a particular area. The few hotels, restaurants, and bars or beer gardens are scattered all over the city. Even the sports and recreation centers are likewise distributed all around the city, together with shopping malls, theaters, and discos or night clubs.

Even the latest technological innovations to assist in easing traffic in the most used major thoroughfares and intersections, although concentrated along EDSA can not be said to be exclusively for the EDSA traffic alone since a similar flyover had been constructed atop the intersection of Commonwealth and Tandang Sora Aves.

In any case. Quezon City has great potentials as the tourist center of the country since the city has been emerging as the educational center, the shopping center, the car dealers center, the automotive spare parts center, etc.

MAYOR MATHAY AT WORK.

HEALTH CARE AND SOCIAL SERVICES

A healthy population is indispensable to a productive labor force, to a progressive commerce and industry, and to an expansion and development-inclined business and economic activities.

A healthy population must, of course, start from healthy children and health care and social services which ensure healthy surroundings, facilities for a healthy childhood, and health care and social services in general. While there are many barangays which do not have a health center, there are enough medical and allied personnel who can move from barangay to barangay to make available to all barangays, medical, dental, optical, nutrition, and sanitation services on a year-round basis. All that is needed in this direction is effective and workable scheduling.

At the same time, services along population management and control, improved birth care, and nutrition should be emphasized. After all, a healthy labor force can only proceed from healthy children and can ensure high quality production work, products that will pass rigid quality control, and efficient and diligent active manpower.

Health care and social services are significant measures in local governance. Service delivery along these lines should be emphasized in order to ensure a healthy population.

ORGANIZATIONS

The degree of organization of the people in an area is an indication of the awareness, expectation, and aspirations of the same people. In Quezon City, the business community is well organized to a point that even restaurants in a major thoroughfare are formed into a working group, the spare parts dealers in another main street are likewise organized, so are the merchants in Cubao, etc. What is remarkable in these organizations is that they all show immense interest in the affairs of the city. They champion the cause of local government-private sector partnership in development.

Aside from the business community, the major labor organizations and labor-oriented associations and foundations are headquartered in the city.

Moreover, the city is not also wanting in civic and religious organizations ever willing to cooperate with and/or adopt barangays as their offspring in development. There are, therefore, such incidents of Rotary Club/barangay partnership in community improvement efforts.

At the same time, the urban poor communities, although perhaps lacking in financial resources are neverthless not wanting in organizational talents to be able to push through with their objectives concerning decent housing, livelihood, employment, etc. In response to this organizational awareness on the part of urban poor communities, the city government has responded with a task force charged with cooperatives organizing and development as a concomittant effort toward livelihood identification, conceptualization, implementation, and enhancement. There can not likewise be any denying that majority of the Catholic parishes in the city are in the forefront of cooperatives organizing and, in fact, many affluent cooperatives are parish-based, pointing out a concern not only for the spiritual needs of the parishioners but also, perhaps more importantly, an appreciation of their economic problems.

TRANSPORTATION

Transportation, roads and bridges, and underpasses and overpasses and fly-overs to ease traffic are some of the indispensable ingredients to economic development. For this reason, the road conditions, the means of transportation, and underpass-overpass-fly-over facilities are a major concern of the government on both the national and local levels.

Quezon City has always been considered as the more logical alternative as the national drop center (bagsakan) for commodities coming from Central and Northern Luzon and Southern Tagalog and the Bicol Region. There are specific areas in Quezon City, which can easily be transformed into the provincial bus terminals, the center for rice and corn trading, for vegetables and fruit distribution, for manufactured products marketing. Quezon City has the potentials for all this, and there have been plans toward such development, even as the city government has been going rather slow about this since plans and programs along this direction would entail enormous expenditure.

One distinct direction in transportation is the emergence of cooperatives for specific transport needs, e.g., bus coop, jeepney coops, and tricycle coops. Statistics in this regard seem to indicate the usefulness of transport coops in certain specific areas and lines.

A CONCRETE ROAD

Traffic-wise, the most travelled major thoroughfares in Quezon City are EDSA, Quezon Ave., Aurora Blvd., and Commonwealth Ave.

There are five principal watersheds providing a surface drainage system in Quezon City;

San Juan River-Pasig River Basin
Tullahan River Basin
Maycauayan River Basin
Marikina River Basin
Novaliches Watershed

A series of rivers, creeks, and canals delineated by secondary drainage makes up the natural drainage system within these watershed areas, complemented by network of roadway drainage lines carrying surface run-off from built-up areas to said waterways.

The most frequent sewer system used is the septic vault. About 70 per cent of total households utilize this system, even as the Metropolitan Waterworks and Sewerage System still operates the area sewer system in Projects 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, and Phil-Am Homes. Other systems used consist of open and closed pits.

MAYOR MATHAY RECEIVES "HONOR ROLL" AWARD FROM "HOY GISING", A PUBLIC AFFAIRS TELEVISION PROGRAM

EDUCATION AND CULTURE

The educational system participated in by both the local government and the private sector could spell the difference between the success or failure of government programs. There should be sound policy makers, program planners, development administrators, project implementors and managers, performance evaluators, trainors, etc., who should see to it that local governance is responsive to the needs of the people and that the benefits of development go directly to the people.

It is often said that education is the best answer to the acceptance of change, modernization, techonological advances. The age-old enemies of man, i.e., ignorance, disease, and poverty, can only be eradicated from the face of the earth through education. But formal education takes such a long time; therefore, there is need to introduce innovations in educational directions to shorten the time for the development of an attitude that is not time-bound, tradition-chained, and change-resistant. One such approach has been manpower planning, skills training, and polytechnic education.

In any case, the young population residing in Quezon City may be considered as the most important resource of the city for development. Together with open lands, these young hands if trained in the needed skills can surely effectively participate in the development process, making it more meaningful to the people and assuring thereby its acceptability.

In this sense, therefore, the city needs more vocational and technical centers that will assist in the development not just of any skills but of skills necessary in the growth, development, and progress of the city and its people. There can be no better assurance for the success of the thrusts and programs of the city government than the willingness and the capability of the people to actively participate in them, for their own benefit.

HOUSING

The availability of housing units for urban poor communities has always been a major problem of the government. In the early 50s, President Quirino started a massive low-cost housing that solved somehow the housing problem of the time brought about by unabated urban migration. It had been found out then that majority of the homeless in the greater Manila area were families from the poor provinces in the Visayas looking for their fortune in the city.

In the 80s, it was determined that the housing program could not cope with the need, aside from the new aspect of affordability since the increase in construction materials and labor had made the low-cost housing unit too expensive for the ordinary laborer earning minimum wages. A new approach was then developed involving the diminution of the lot where a 2-storey house would be built to as small as 30 sq.m. in the name of affordability. There are, in fact, presently housing projects undertaken by the private sector but funded by local government units in order to re-settle families which live in shanties not usually fit for human habitation.

Even so, the cost of land acquisition and the cost of construction would still make housing projects prohibitive. Engineers and technicians have been experimenting with the use of indigenous materials to lessen the cost of construction. Model homes continue to be the main concern of the National Housing Authority and some models are indeed on display in the U.P. campus for contractors to look at and possibly adopt. However, the issue of affordability remains to be crucial in any housing project.

At the same time, the issue of urban migration and of employment generation in the country-side should be considered more seriously so that a solution to the housing problem in the urban centers could finally be found.

COMMUNICATIONS AND UTILITIES

Communications media are quite influential in the country, particularly in the urban centers reached by the TV networks, the radio stations, and the major metropolitan daily newspapers. Telephone, telegraph, telex, and fax systems needed by the large national and international business transactions are, however, not yet as well developed as they should be.

Even good roads, water supply, and basic telephone systems needed in day-to-day communications are not as efficient as expected. The absence of these facilities seems to be the primarily reason why investors generally shy away from the country. In the Metro Manila area, these taken-for granted facilities are really not so efficient.

In terms of local and foreign news coverage, the TV networks, the radio stations, and the metropolitan dailies cover them sufficiently. Some even imply that these communications media often abuse the privilege afforded them in the field of news casting and opinions and commentaries about specific situations and developments. There are so many commentators over the radio and TV and as many columnists in the metropolitan dailies, each with their own persuasion, to such an extent that people complain that they no longer can discern who among them is really committed to the truth. Many among them peddle their opinions.

With the organization of the Kapisanan ng mga Brodkaster, however, there have been some marked improvement in the behavior of media personnel, done primarily through self-censorship and admonitions. The National Press Club continues to be the dominant organization among media personnel and in Quezon City, there is the Q.C. Press Assn. which acts as a mini-NPC among its members.

There is still so much to be desired in communications and utilities in the country, even in the urban centers. But there seems to be serious effort on the part of private business and the government to keep improving the situation.

2. Water Supply

About 70 percent of total land area of the city are served by MWSS. The remaining 30 percent utilize deepwells/artesian and storage tanks.

The existing MWSS distribution system within the city consists of water transmission mains usually located along primary roads. Other MWSS component facilities are the La Mesa Dam, Balara Treatment Plant, San Juan and Bagbag Reservoirs, and the D. Tuazon Pumping Station.

3. Power Supply

The electric power requirements of the entire city is supplied by the Manila Electric Company (MERALCO). MERALCO has 9 sub-stations located within the city.

THE BARANGAY OUTPOST MODEL.

PEACE AND ORDER

There is no better way to turn away business and investments than to neglect the peace and order conditions in a community. Peace and order may be considered as the single most important ingredient of development. Therefore, it should be the concern of the residents, the sitio leaders, the barangay officials, the district councilors and congressmen, the district and field offices of the operating departments/offices/task forces in the city hall complex, the highest executives of the city. It should logically be the concern of business groups, civic and religious associations, and other non-governmental organizations, particularly those operating in the grassroots.

For this reason, two councilors, Bu Mathay and Tony Sioson, have joined hands, approved by Mayor Mathay, for the construction of barangay outposts all over Quezon City. What is admirable about this project is that it is the result of an effective partnership between the barangays, as the lowest unit of local government, and the business community, which underwrites the construction, location, and setting up of the barangay outposts. But the barangay outpost is not without inherent benefits to business. It can be used as an effective advertising vehicle whereby the products and services of the donor-business establishment may be pushed on the sides of the barangay outpost. Furthermore, while it serves the peace and order aspirations of the people residing in the immediate area where the barangay outpost will be situated, it can also be utilized by the city government as a channel of communications, and exploited by the donor-business establishment with its own advertising thrust. It is a project that will benefit everybody within the immediate vicinity of the barangay outpost's location.

With barangay outpost in every important street corner, about 840 in actual number, the peace and order situation may be stabilized, improved, and maintained at a highly acceptable level.

Of course, the creation of the Central Police District (CDC) is perceived as a great step towards establishing and maintaining an atmosphere of stability in the city. The CDP has adopted an integrated approach to crime prevention and crime repression and has introduced programs and services in the pursuit of its major functions and responsibilities.

ANOTHER VIEW OF CITY HALL

CITY GOVERNMENT SERVICE THRUST

While the main function of a local government unit (LGU) is primarily service delivery in response to a specific need at the proper time, there are certain service that are emphasized. These include health care, urban poor affairs (particularly community organizing and housing), social services, public library services, engineering services (particularly road repair, declogging of drainage system and open canals, and the construction of barangay infra-structures such as covered courts, a platform for some important or festive occasions etc.), education for all, and other important services rendered and delivered through special task forces (such as cleanliness and sanitation and tree planting for a "clean and green" city, mobile stores and other services through the social mobilization task force, cooperative organizing, etc.)

All of these service thrusts would indicate the current leadership's concern for the future of the city in terms of ecological balance, skilled and healthy young population ready to meet the challenges of the coming century, infra-structure that will serve not only the business community but also the urban poor areas where projects may be undertaken in partnership with private business, community organizing so that the affluent housing subdivisions can be organized and interested in helping their less fortunate neighbors in the depressed areas, zero waste management that may be initiated with simple waste segregation measures, consumer assistance and protection activities to directly assist the urban poor communities in being able to afford the required prime commodities for a nutrition-conscious diet, affordable housing, and many other thrusts that need to be defined as a means of widening, broadening, and deepening the service base of the city government as a model to other LGUs.

CITY HEALTH OFFICE-VETERINARY SERVICES

THE Veterinary Services Division (VSD), of the City Health Office, performs a three-tined function that 1) meat inspection; 2) animal disease control;and 3) treatment and immunization of animals.

Under meat inspection, the VSD conducts: a) an antemortem inspection of live animals confined for at least 24 hours in the city corrals; b) issuance of permit to slaughter hogs and cattles after the satisfaction of requirements; c) postmortem inspection of animal carcasses and meat; d) issuances of inspection certificate; e) postabbatoir inspection in the city's various markets; and f) condemnation and/or confiscation of meat that did not pass legal inspection.

To control the spread of animal diseases like dog rabies, particularly those transmissible to humans, the VSD conducts an annual free vaccination in the different barangays of the city. To avail of the service, the barangay chairman or even village associations may officially request the VSD to conduct mass immunization of dogs in their respective barangays; or a dog-owner may just personally bring in his dog to the VSD office.

There is also a plan to put up an animal care division (city pound) which will take care of the apprehension and impounding of stray animals at the city corrals.

CITY HEALTH OFFICE-FAMILY PLANNING

AS its name implies, the Family Planning Office under the City Health Department provides services related to family planning, such as: 1) pre-marital information and health education; 2) family planning which include counselling on birth spacing and the family planning methods and options available to the prospective couple; 3) pre-natal clinic; 4) treatment of minor gynecological disease; 5) pap smear; 6) information and motivation; 7) basic medical services; and 8) well baby

What is promoted is not population management.

Family planning seminars and its immunization program for children are two of the most important services of the office.

For one, would-be couples are required to submit a certificate of having undergone a family planning seminar before they can be married.

Its immunization program, (every Wednesday), provides free vaccination for children for BCG, DPT, anti-tetanus, polio and measles.

URBAN POOR AFFAIRS OFFICE

THE Urban Poor Affairs Office (UPAO) was created to respond to the need for a decent human settlement and of providing assistance to the marginalized sector of the city.

Basically, the UPAO coordinates all the efforts and functions pertaining to the urban poor, manages the resolution of problems involving squatting and squatters, and formulates strategies, works, plans and programs to alleviate and uplift the lives of the urban poor.

In capsule form, the UPAO performs the following services: 1) Census-Survey Program - which involves the gathering of demographic, socio-economic, locational and structural and locational data on the various depressed areas in Quezon City; 2) Community Mortgage Program - involves the acquisition of land for allocation to qualified squatter families; 3) Unified Lending Program - is a national government project which the Quezon City government implements, with the UPAO acting as originator for loan barrowers; and 4) Arbitration and Conciliation Program for the Urban Poor- is basically a mechanism for solving land claims and ownership disputes through several modes of compromise and dialogues between the contending parties.

SOCIAL SERVICES DEPARTMENT

THE Social Services Department is imbued with the philosophy that the disadvantaged should be provided with the opportunities to become self-reliant and participating members of society.

In capsule forms, its basic programs and services, include:

Community Outreach Division

1) Family and Community Development Program consists of various services aimed at providing assistance to the socially disadvataged families and communities to develop their capabilities as well as defining their needs and formulating solutions to bring about changes in their lives.

2) Women Welfare Program-involves the skills and capability training aimed at empowering women and stopping exploitation of women.

3) Disabled Persons Welfare Program-provides services and capability building for disabled persons and their rehabilitation.

4) Child and Youth Welfare Program-is intended for children and the youth of the city. This program covers their care, protection and rehabilitation aimed at ensuring their social adjustment and total growth and development.

Welfare and Relief Division

The division provides relief and restoration services to victims of natural calamities as well as trainings and information dissemination on disaster preparedness and prevention.

Under this division are: 1) Public Assistance Services-like burial, material, medical and transportation assistance; and 2) Volunteer Development and Auxillary Services which involve community mobilization, particularly during times of natural calamities.

Residential and Rehabilitation Division

This division provides temporary shelter and rehabilitation services to youth offenders, street children, and transients in the city.

Vocational and Skills Development Division

Programs and services under this division involve skills training in employable vocations, as well as capital assistance and placement services.

CITY PUBLIC LIBRARY

THE Quezon City Public Library basically offers information services to the city residents through its operation of a public library at the Quezon City Hall compound as well as in various barangays of the city.

Briefly, its services include: 1) acquisition of information materials, like books, magazines and newspapers in all fields of learning and discipline; 2) provisions of finding aids to research like indexes and catalogues; 3) research and information assistance; 4) current information services through its newspaper index; and 5) photocopy services

Among its collection of books include atlases, gazettes, almanacs, yearbooks, maps, dictionaries, manuals, handbooks, maps and other reference books, including a sizable collection of law books, periodicals and audio-visuals.

Thus far, the Q.C. Library is open to all. Office hours is from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. from Monday to Friday, with no noon breaks.

On Saturdays, the library is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

To borrow fiction books, the Q.C. Library requires a Library card which is issued upon presentation of 2 ID pictures and the assurance of 2 guarantors.

ENGINEERING

While included in the main functions of the City Engineer's office are the issuance f building permits and the inspection of construction sites, its service orientation has also been accented over the last few years. This service orientation actually include simple road repair work, declogging of drainage systems and open canals particularly during the rainy season, and the constrcuction of covered courts, stages during town fiestas or platforms for barangay ceremonies and/or functions that need the same. These services bring the City Engineer's office closer to the people that it should serve as efficientlty as possible.

SPECIAL TASK FORCES

In the interest of speedy delivery of needed services to communities requiring the same, task forces are created to specifically attend to definite concerns. For instance, there is the Task Force for a "clean and green" city, devoting its time and effort to cleanliness, sanitation, tree planting and other ecologically-oriented programs and projects.

There is likewise the Task Force Smile that devotes its energy to the management of mobile mini-marts, medical and dental clinics, community and cooperative organizing work, and many other projects falling under the broad term of social mobilization.

SERVICE THROUGH DECENTRALIZATION

Although the Novaliches Mini-City Hall has been in existence for a few years, it is only now that it is beginning to show potential for more service delivery for the residents of Novaliches. Now more popularly known as the Novaliches District Center, it has released a report which indicates more statistically the highlights of its sercies to the people of Novaliches.

Highlights of Novaliches District Center Services

- Mid-year revenue collections of the treasury department amounted to P13,102,647.83. For July, 1993 alone, collections reached P2,071,292.22 already compared to 1992 total collections amounting to P6,695,871.24.
- Based on the semi-annual accomplishment report of the Health and Sanitation Department, a total of 1,124 applications for Health/Sanitation Certificates and Endoresments were issued bringing in over P59,000.00 in revenues compared to 1992's total generated collections of P73,110.00. Again, for the month of July alone, a total of 265 Health/Sanitation Certificates and Endoresements were issued amounting to P16,075.00.
- The Office of the City Assessor became the latest addition to hold office at the Novaliches District Center. From March 22 to June 15, 1993, it came up with an initial total generated assessed value amounting to P39,617,510.00 with tax equivalent of P1,030,054.04. For July, it recorded total assessed value or real estate in the area amounting to P13,441,150.00 with total tax equivalent of P268,370.18.
- The Office of the Building Official Showed a remarkable accomplishment for the period between February to June, 1993. As per its records, the office was able to generate a total revenue collection of P1,387,298. 20 from 595 building plans processed furing the period.
- Total generated collections of the Tricycle Regulation Unit reached P114,683.40 for mid-year 1993 and for the month of July, collections amounted to P51,480.00. The TRU also registered an additional 1,280 tricycle units after coordinating the establishment of 28 Tricycle Operator-Drivers Association (TODA) in Novaliches.

- A total of 849 permits and 1,046 electrical certificates were issued by the Electrical Department generating P54,961.10. For July, a total of P3,507.45 was collected from 214 permits and 293 electrical certificates issued by the department.
- The Business Permit Licensing Office issued 572 new business permits and renewed 1,609 permits generating P4,217,605.71 from January to June, 1993 as a result of massive inpection of business establishments by the NDC operations group.
- From the Office of the Fire Official, total revenue collected as of June, 1993 amounted to P97,165.37 with 375 building plans and 656 business permits processed.
- The Liquor Licensing and Regulatory Board at the NDC generated fees amounting to P131,400.24 with the issuance of 141 new permits and 245 renewal permits.
- The NDC Operations Group undertook massive inspection covering at least three barangays with some 842 business establishments inspected, consequently identifying revenue potentials of some 80 per cent of the total establishments inspected.
- Evaluation conducted by the Human Resource Development Unit of the Mayor's Office gave NDC personnel a 100 per cent satisfactory rating. The HRDY also gave excellent ratings to majority of NDC personnel
- The Traffic Management Unit Sector II provided direction and control of the traffic situation in the area and for t he period between January to May, 1993 the unit arrested some 3,242 traffic violators.
- The Social Services Development Department at the NDC handled several cases that needed medical and financial assistance and conducted AIDS Awareness Seminars, marriage counseling and coordinated day-to-day operations in 31 Day Care Centers.
- The NDC Secretariat coordinated and spearheaded Oplan Alis Disease with a total of 98,737 children and women immunized. The fumigation program, dubbed "Bomba Nova: Contra Lamok," covered 13 barangays, while the dog vaccination operations recorded about 100 dogs on its first day.
- The Community Development and information Center delivered vital information to the public through leaflet, posters, meetings and dialogues with residents. It also sponsored film showing at schools and barangays in close coordination with the PAISO of the Mayor's Office and the Philippine Information Agency.
