

Quezon City fetes outstanding public health, day care workers

QUEZON City Vice-Mayor Joy Belmonte led the awarding ceremonies for nine public health and day care workers honored by the Quezon City government for their exemplary performance and contribution to their respective communities on February 18.

The outstanding public health officers are physician Angel De Guzman; dentist Ronel Condenueno; nurse Mario Samson; population program officer Ghenn Lasanes, midwife Leonila San Miguel, and; dental aide Vilma Ferrer. While the outstanding day care workers are Josephine Abaigar, Nida Palaez, and Gina Simangan.

The awarding ceremony was held in partnership with the Rotary Club of Paraiso-District 3780.

The city government said it believes public health and day care workers provide invaluable services to improve health and education in their communities.

Every so often, some individuals stand out whose passion and commitment deserves recognition, it added.
