Orphaned by Manila Mayor Francisco “Isko Moreno” Domagoso’s decision to seek the country’s highest office, Vice Mayor Honey Lacuna will step on the plate and will file her Certificate of Candidacy (CoC) for the capital’s mayoralty post today.

She will tow Manila Third District Representative Yul Servo as her vice-mayoral tandem. They are expected to file their respective CoC at the Arroceros Office of the Commission on Elections (Comelec) at 10 a.m., two days after Moreno had filed his CoC for the presidency at the Comelec tent near the Sofitel Hotel in Pasay City on Monday.

Lacuna and Servo will run under the banner of Aksyon Demokratiko, which has Moreno as party president.

She will also field a complete slate of six House Representatives hopefuls, one each for the city’s districts. Thirty-six councilors will also be on her ticket.

Many others have agreed to be placed on a waitlist should any of her candidates withdraw, her camp said.

In another development, San Juan City Mayor Francis Zamora led his ticket in filing their CoC at the local Comelec office.

He will have Warren Villa as his vice mayoral tandem.

Lawyer Bel Zamora will be fielded as his team’s congressional bet, while basketball superstar James Yap will be towing his candidates for the City Council.

Meanwhile, Quezon City Mayor Joy Belmonte and Vice Mayor Gian Sotto will be seeking reelection.

They will run under the Serbisyo sa Bayan Party.
