Members of Task Force omicron of the Quezon city government have met to discuss measures to address rising covid cases in the country.

The task force said it will focus on several areas of intervention, including actively seeking cases, strict isolation of those infected and those showing symptoms, and enforcement of health protocols. likewise, the local government has decided to fast-track even more the vaccination of the population, including the provision of booster shots.

“We will reinforce the successful strategies that helped us survive the onslaught of the Delta surge,” Mayor Joy Belmonte said.

She said that the city has enough supply of vaccines, especially those made by AstraZeneca, as it has procured 1.1 million doses through an order made last year.

“We have a lot of vaccine doses that can boost the immunity of our constituents. We urge all to include getting booster shots in their list of New year’s resolutions. our vaccination sites are continuously operating to administer shots for everyone,” the mayor added.

The government has shortened the interval in getting booster shots to three months for vaccines made by Moderna, Pfizer, Sinovac, AstraZeneca and gamaleya.
