Quezon City has been selected as one of the national finalists for World Wide Fund for Nature's (WWF) One Planet City Challenge (OPCC) 20212022.

Quezon City along with two other major cities -- Davao and Dipolog City -- was selected among the 16 qualified cities from the Philippines.

One Planet City Challenge is a friendly global competition initiated by WWF to recognize cities for their climate actions and ambitions and assess whether they align with the goals set forth in the Paris Agreement in limiting climate change to 1.5 °C.

Quezon City Mayor Joy Belmonte expressed her gratitude to WWF-OPCC for selecting the city as one of the finalists.

"We are so proud to be one of the finalists to this friendly global competition on addressing climate change," Belmonte said.
